

CORRUPTION IN SYRIA: LESSONS LEARNED

A STATEMENT BY
SALWA ZAKZAK

The basic principle is the rule of law and its completeness. There is a need for a constitutional article on fighting corruption, followed by detailed laws that define the mechanism for applying anti-corruption, monitoring and transparency. It also requires the establishment of a special anti-corruption commission that combines responsibility with accountability and involves all political, social and civil forces.